TECHNOLOGY

It's hard to tell in Los Angeles when reality bleeds into Immatrix: all five sense streaming through the Interface to playback an immersive experience anytime, anywhere. After decades of playing second fiddle to Vancouver, Los Angeles is back on top of the entertainment business and this is the new canvas upon which they exploit eager midwesterners and paint their lush paychecks.

ENVIRONMENT

Los Angeles's perpetual problem is how it sits in a basin, trapped between mountains and the Pacific. And the earthquake prone landscape forces development to build out not up. Sprawled across the bottom of this bowl it sits under a sheet of smog. While once on the vanguard of air-purifying technology and policy, a rash of politicians with a boner for deregulation has plummeted the city back into the haze.

SOCIETY

Somewhere behind the glitzy augmented reality billboards and posters is the shadowy hard surface of the real city of angels. It's a city of gang violence, despairing immigrants, and forsaken dreamchasers. They can try to cover it up with hot Interface graphics but the cold truth is always just one layer down, ready to bleed out into the open.
