

A black and white photograph showing four British soldiers in Italy, 1945. In the foreground, three soldiers are visible. The soldier on the left is seen from the side, wearing a helmet and a jacket with a scarf. The soldier in the center is facing forward, wearing a helmet and a jacket with a scarf, and has a mustache. The soldier on the right is facing forward, wearing a helmet and a jacket with a scarf, and has a mustache. In the background, a fourth soldier is visible near a stone building. The soldiers are wearing helmets and carrying equipment. The background shows a stone building with a window.

Advance proceeds further and the grenadiers reach the residential area and its large buildings. Chuykov needs time for reinforcements to arrive. When the units of 194. Regiment see the Volga a violent russian counterstroke is launched, supported by artillery. Blitzkrieg is over; the defender will from now on sell dearly every meter of terrain.