SOUTH OF HOSCHIED, LUXEMBOURG, December 18, 1944:

As early as the pre-dawn hours of December 17, a Battery of 105mm howitzers of the 107th field artillery battalion just behind the southern reaches of Skyline Drive came under small arms fire from German patrols; and in the early afternoon on the 18th, an entire battalion of Volksgrenadiers attacked that battery and a nearby battery of 155mm howitzers of the 108th field artillery battalion.

BOARD CONFIGURATION:

N ➤

BALANCE:

- ✚ 4-4-7's equipped with winter camouflage.
- ☆ Germans must capture 6 pieces.

Battery A, 107th Field Artillery Battalion [ELR: 3] set up on Southern hill mass: {SAN: 3}

Elements 447th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battery enter on turn 3 on South Edge

Battery C, 108th Field Artillery Battalion : set up on Northern hill mass

Remnants Co. F, 2d Battalion 109th Infantry Regiment set up on Board 11

Elements 707th Tank Battalion enter on turn 5 on North edge

Elements of Volksgrenadier Regiment 914 [ELR: 3] set on Board 34 {SAN: 4}

SPECIAL RULES:

- EC are Ground Snow with no wind at start.
- Place overlay 4 in usual position.
- U.S. guns are not emplaced. Each gun must set up within four hexes of the other guns in its battery (maximum one gun per hex).
- German units may conduct Human Wave attacks (A25.23).
- Use M1918M1 guns to represent additional M1's.
- Permanently disabled guns remain on board and may be captured

AFTERMATH: Whilst the batteries provided mutual fire-support, two halftracks from the 447th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion raced up the Skyline Drive, their quad 50's blazing. From the North, a platoon of tanks sent to try to break through to Hoscheid returned and helped drive the Germans away. The artillery pieces were for the moment safe, but it was obvious that all the artillery in support of the 109th Infantry would have to displace.

GOING ASHORE

ASL SCENARIO JW3

Victory Conditions: The German player receives VP's for units exited through hex III and for Russian units eliminated. >24 - German victory; <19 - Russian victory. Any other result is a draw

Near the Bug River, 22 June 1941: The surprise invasion of the USSR had begun. Many of the Northern Soviet lines were easily forced. Matters were much different in the South where the German 6th Army was encountering better organized defenses. Moreover, a river crossing was in order, and the NKVD Border Guards were waiting on the other side.

SPECIAL RULES:

- EC are Moderate with no wind at start.
- There is a slow current to the south.
- At the beginning of every RPh, the Russian must make a dr, if the result is < the current turn number, all Russian units suffer ammunition shortage for the duration of the scenario

- Only hexrows A - P are playable.
- Soviet units exited off the east edge are not considered eliminated for VP purposes.
- Prior to Russian set up, the German player may predesignate 2 hexes in which he may place dispersed SMOKE during the PPh of German turn 1.

AFTERMATH: The German assault boats dashed across the Bug, which was a mere hundred meters wide in this area. Most of the boats reached the far shore untouched, due mostly to a thin smoke screen laid down by some distant German guns. Once ashore, however, the NKVD fought relentlessly using rifles, grenades, and LMG's. Finally, with ammo running short, and more German troops across the river farther south, the NKVD detachment withdrew, leaving the crossing in German hands.

CHAUMONT, 4 MILES SOUTH OF BASTOGNE: 23 December, 1944: In the attempt to relieve Bastogne, Patton had charged the 4th Armoured Division to "Drive like hell", but it wasn't working out that way. While Combat Command A struggled against stiffening opposition, demolished bridges and poor terrain, CCB encountered only token resistance on the 22nd and got to within 7 miles from Bastogne at Burnon. Before daylight on the 23rd, CCB resumed its advance only to find the next village of Chaumont defended by a company of the 5th Parachute Division. In a combined arms assault, CCB's tanks bogged down on the slopes turned soft by the sun, but the armoured infantrymen rooted out the fallschirmjaegers alone. That morning at the headquarters of the 26th volksgrénadier near Bastogne, five ferdinand tank destroyers had arrived. Part of the 653rd heavy panzerjaeger Battalion which had recently come from Italy, they were scheduled for commitment in Alsace; but somehow had been diverted to the Ardennes. The division commander cared not where they came from or how, for they seemed heaven sent to prevent the American drive from cutting into the rear of his division at Bastogne.

SPECIAL RULES:

- EC are Mud with no wind at start. Levels 1 and 2 on board 39 are bog hexes for tanks only with a +4 DRM (in addition to D8.23).
- Path 39R8-U4 is a forest-road. Only other road hexes on board 39 are Q10 and R9 (defined as open ground in Mud).
- For each U.S. Squad (FRU) not set up as PRC an M3/M3A1 is forfeit from the U.S. OB. The crew and any scrounged SW from such halftracks may be set up on board (dm or assembled).
- Inherent MMC in HMG/MMG M3's are 6-6-7's/3-4-7's.
- One German squad/equivalent may set up HIP.

AFTERMATH: Kokott promptly sent the Ferdinands Southward along with 10 of his assault guns. They arrived just in time to enable the paratroopers to retake the village, and the German guns extracted a heavy toll of the American tanks mired on the hillside outside the village. That night General McAuliffe sent an obviously concerned message from Bastogne to the 4th armoured; "sorry I did not get to shake hands today. I was disappointed." A short time later somebody on his staff sent another; "There is only one more shopping day before Christmas".

SPECIAL RULES:

- BC is Mud (E3.6) with no wind at start.
- The following apply to the KV:
 - MA has a ROP of 2
 - MA will only malfunction if using Intensive Fire.
 - The Russian player must pre-designate 3 hexsides as RD.
 - The KV may neither move nor change VCA during play.
- All roads are paved. All hedges and hills on board 18 East of hexrow 5 do not exist.

AFTERMATH: The engineers commandeered several anti-tank guns and some tank support. They then set about the task of outmaneuvering the well positioned behemoth. Local partisans joined the fracas, and soon a swirling firefight developed around the crossroads. Eventually, the assault engineers used grenade bundles to destroy the KV, but this one vehicle would delay the entire 6th Panzer Division by 18 critical hours.
